FACT or Myth?

The color red angers bulls.

When I was little, one of my favorite books was "Fact or Myth?" It looked at many well-known "facts" of the animal world (like, "the color red angers bulls") and either confirmed or debunked them. Turns out a lot of us need to get our Bible facts straight as well, especially when it comes to knowing the will of God.

Fact or myth? God has the ability to heal any disease, but sometimes it's his will for us to be sick. MYTH. The Bible clearly states many times that Jesus healed all who came to him. Sure, we all die at some point, but it's his will for us to die healthy. No exceptions.

Fact or myth? God uses hardships like poverty to train us, so we sometimes need to accept this as his will. MYTH. God can use all things and turn them into good. But he can just as easily (or more easily in fact) train you without making you poor. Which would you prefer? The Bible says Jesus became poor for us, so that by his poverty, we might become rich. It is definitely God's will for you to be rich and to have an abundant life.

Fact or myth? It is difficult to know the will of God. MYTH. The Bible says his law is written within our hearts and that he works in us to will and to act according to his good purpose. We often pretend not to know however, because it is simply more convenient this way.

A final one: fact or myth? God is good. FACT. Too often though, we treat this fact as a myth. Maybe this is where we should all start when we try to find out the will of God. A lot of things become surprisingly clear when we accept this simple fact.
